A Brief Preview

The Sacramento State men's basketball team (9-19, 4-11) will play its final game of the 2006-07 season on Monday, Feb. 26, at 7:05 p.m. inside the Hornets Nest. The Hornets welcome in the Big Sky Conference's regular season champions Weber State (18-10, 11-4). The Wildcats, who have already earned a bye in the Big Sky Tournament quarterfinals, will host the semifinal and championship rounds of the tournament on March 6-7.

The Hornets limp into the season finale, having lost 10 of their last 12 Big Sky games after beginning the conference season with a 2-1 record. Sacramento State will not be making a trip to the Big Sky Tournament for the first time in five years as the top six teams in the nine-member league advance to the postseason tournament. The Hornets entered the season as one of three teams (Eastern Washington, Montana) to have reached the Big Sky Tournament each of the last four years.

One streak, however, is on the line for the Hornets as they prepare for their final game. With a win, Sacramento State would reach the double-figure mark in victories for the fifth consecutive season. The streak looks a lot more impressive when you consider the program failed to accomplish the feat during each of its first 11 years in the Div. I ranks (1991-pres.). In fact, the team has averaged 13.0 wins per season each of the last four years after averaging just 4.6 victories the previous 11 seasons.

Prior to Monday's game, Sacramento State's two seniors – combo guard Haron Hargrave and forward Alex Bausley – will be honored for their contributions to the program. Bausley has already established himself as one of the program's top players, currently ranking first in rebounds (545), and second in points (1,135) and steals (185) in Sacramento State's Div. I-era record book. In fact, Bausley, the team's only fourth-year senior, is one of just three Hornets during the Div. I era to eclipse the 1,000-point plateau.

Hargrave, who transferred to the Hornets last year from Chaffey Junior College, is averaging 10.7 points, 4.3 free throw attempts, 1.4 steals and 1.4 three-pointers per game during his two-year career. He is currently averaging a team-best 13.2 points this season, and his free throw percentage (.810, 110-135) is the fifth best mark in the Big Sky. In fact, his 135 free throw attempts are the second most among the league's top 15 free throw percentage shooters.

Weber State has made one of the more remarkable turnarounds in league history. The Wildcats will win at least a share of the Big Sky regular season championship one season after finishing in last place with a 4-10 conference record. The Wildcats haven't played since a 73-67 home win over Montana on Feb. 14.

Monday's game will be broadcast live on KSAC 1240 AM, hornetsports.com and bigskytv.org with Steve McElroy calling all the action. McElroy is in his 10th season as radio voice of Hornet basketball.

Meet The Coach

The second-longest tenured coach in the Big Sky Conference (trailing only Northern Arizona's Mike Adras), Jerome Jenkins is currently in his seventh season at the helm of the Sacramento State basketball program. The basketball veteran is the 12th head coach in the 59-year history of the program. Since taking over a struggling program that had averaged just 4.1 wins per year from the team's first season of Div. I play (1991-92) until his hiring, Jenkins has transformed the program into one that consistently challenges for the Big Sky title and has averaged 11.0 wins per season during his tenure.

In fact, Sacramento State is one of just three teams that have reached the Big Sky Tournament each of the last four years (Montana and Eastern Washington are the others). This comes after the Hornets failed to reach the Big Sky's postseason event during each of the team's first six years in the league (1996-pres.).

The Hornets have seen their Big Sky record substantially improve under Jenkins' guidance: 2-14 in 2000-01; 3-11 in 2001-02; 5-9 in 2002-03; 7-7 in 2003-04; 8-6 in 2004-05, and finally 5-9 last year after losing six games by five points or less. In addition, the Hornets' overall record has continued to rise during his tenure (5-22 in 2000-01, 9-19 in 2001-02, 12-17 in 2002-03, 13-15 in 2003-04, 12-16 in 2004-05, and 15-15 last year).

The program has graduated 10 players during Jenkins' tenure, a dramatic improvement from the years prior to his arrival. In fact, two additional players (Chris Lange and Zane Beekman) are on pace to graduate this spring.

The Hornets have reached the Big Sky Tournament semifinals twice under Jenkins, and hosted tournament quarterfinal games in 2003-04 and 2004-05. Last year, Sacramento State upset Montana State in Bozeman in the quarters before falling to regular-season champion Northern Arizona in the semis.

The 39-year old coach came to Sacramento State prior to the 1999-2000 season and served as the team's top assistant coach that year. Jenkins previously had worked two seasons as an assistant at Eastern Washington (1997-99). Prior to working at EWU, he spent four years at Diablo Valley College, where he was an assistant coach (1993-95) and associate head coach (1995-97).

A native of Los Angeles, Jenkins was an all-conference point guard at L.A. City College as a freshman before playing his sophomore season at Southwestern Oregon CC. He then transferred to Regis University in Denver, Colo., where he was a two-time all-conference selection.

A Look At The Last Game

Sacramento State scored just six points during the final 7:05 of the contest, and Eastern Washington went 8-of-12 from the free throw line down the stretch on the way to an 80-72 victory over the Hornets last Saturday at Reese Court.

A lay-up from Davon Roberts gave the Hornets a 66-65 lead with 7:06 remaining in the contest, but the Hornets went ice cold down the stretch. In fact, the team scored on just three of its final 16 possessions, including five turnovers, to allow Eastern Washington to reclaim the lead and eventually chalk up the win. The Hornets played well defensively, limiting EWU to 43.1 percent shooting (25-58), while holding the Big Sky's reigning MVP Rodney Stuckey to just 4-of-13 from the field.

Sacramento State had a chance to cut the lead to three points with 38 seconds to play, but Loren Leath missed a contested lay-up, and Stuckey converted a pair of free throws to give the Eagles a 79-72 lead with 33 seconds left. That put the game away as Sacramento State was held scoreless after a Haron Hargrave free throw gave the team its final point of the contest with 45 seconds remaining. The Eagles' final eight points of the game came at the free throw line, as only one field goal was converted by either team during the final 2:43 of the contest (a three-pointer from Leath with 1:05 left).

No team led by more than nine points during the entire contest, as the Eagles' eight-point margin of victory was just one point shy of their largest lead of the night. Sacramento State shot 40.3 percent (25-62) from the field and 38.1 percent (8-21) from beyond the three-point arc. However, the game was decided at the free throw line as the Hornets were whistled for 30 fouls, resulting in 38 Eastern Washington free throws. The Eagles converted on 27 of those attempts (.711) while also outrebounding Sacramento State, 47-36. Four Hornets finished the game with at least four fouls, including Davon Roberts and Angel Alamo both fouling out during the game's final 1:30.

Through his first six games of the season while nursing an ankle he sprained in practice three days before his debut, Groce got off to a slow start, averaging just 4.5 points, 1.2 rebounds and 4.2 assists while shooting 28.6 percent from the field.

However, over the last eight games, Groce has been the team's leading scorer. During the eight-game stretch, Groce is averaging 14.9 points and 4.1 assists while getting to the free throw line 32 times, converting 25 of those attempts (.781). In addition, he has scored at least 19 points on four occasions during the eight-game span.

Overall, the team's only true point guard is now averaging 10.4 points, 1.9 rebounds and 4.1 assists while averaging 29.1 minutes per game.

Standing all of 5-10 and weighing 150 pounds, Groce transferred from the University of Hawai'i during the summer of 2005, and sat out last year while redshirting because of NCAA transfer rules. He was academically ineligible during this year's fall semester.

375 And Counting

Sacramento State has made at least one three-pointer in 375 consecutive games, a streak which dates back 13 years. The last time the Hornets did not make a three-pointer occurred on Nov. 28, 1993, when the team went 0-for-6 from beyond the arc in an 85-57 loss at Montana State.

Book It

Consistently one of the most athletic teams in the Big Sky, Sacramento State has led the conference in steals every year since Jerome Jenkins became head coach of the program in 2000-01 (a span of six consecutive years). That won't change this season as the team is easily leading the conference with 10.75 steals per game. That mark will break the program record of 9.96, set in both 2000-01 and 2004-05. In addition, the team's total of 301 steals surpassed the program record of 295 steals, set last season. The Hornets have forced at least 19 turnovers on 18 occasions this year, including 26 against Montana State two weeks ago. The team also leads the Big Sky in turnover margin at +5.54 per game.

Lineup Shuffle

Sacramento State head coach Jerome Jenkins has used 11 different starting lineups this season. Every player on the Hornets' roster has started at least one game, and senior Alex Bausley is the only player to start every contest this season. Jenkins has used the following lineup five consecutive games heading into the matchup with Portland State (guards Haron Hargrave, Rod Adams and Kris Groce, Bausley at forward and undersized Davon Roberts at center).

Simple Math

• Sacramento State's win over Portland State earlier this year at home remains the only time all season the Hornets have defeated an opponent that entered the game with a record above .500. Sacramento State is currently 1-7 against teams above .500, and 1-6 against teams at the .500 mark.

• Conversely, the Hornets are 7-6 against opponents entering the game with a sub-.500 record.

• Sacramento State is 7-6 this season when it has limited its opposition to 80 points or less, and 2-13 when opponents score more than 80 points.

• The Hornets are 0-15 when scoring under 74 points.

• The Hornets are a perfect 9-0 when leading or tied with 5:00 remaining, and 9-1 when tied or leading with 10:00 left in the second half. Conversely, the team has yet to win a game (0-19) when trailing with five minutes left in a game.

• Sacramento State's victory over Montana State (.561) marked the first time all season the team had won when its opponent shoots better than 50.0 percent from the field. The Hornets are 1-14 when teams shoot better than 50.0 percent, and 8-5 when limiting the opposition to a field goal percentage of .500 or below.

A Close Game, What's That?

With the exception of four games that have been decided by four points or less (the Hornets are 3-1 in those contests), every other Sacramento State game this season has been decided by at least seven points. Eighteen of the team's 19 losses have come by seven points or worse, and six of the nine wins have come by at least eight points. This comes in sharp contrast to last season when the Hornets finished 5-8 in games decided by five points or less.

Second Half Woes

One major reason for the Hornets' slide over the last 13 games has been the team's inability to put together a good second half. Despite keeping things close at halftime of nearly every game, Sacramento State has struggled mightily in the second half. Over the last 13 games, opponents have combined to shoot 58.1 percent (193-332) from the field in the second half, with six of those teams shooting better than 60.0 percent. Conversely, the Hornets have shot 37.2 percent (165-443) in the second half, while shooting 42.5 percent or less in 12 of the 13 games. The Hornets' second-half shooting percentage of .484 at home vs. Montana State was their largest over that stretch.

Star-Grave

After missing the first three games of the season, senior combo guard Haron Hargrave has consistently been one the team's top scorers, currently averaging a team-best 13.2 points per game. In addition, he is averaging 5.4 trips to the free throw line per game, converting on 81.5 percent (110-135) from the charity stripe.

Including his last second, buzzer beating three-pointer in the Hornets' overtime win against Pacific, the Queens, N.Y., native has scored in double figures 16 times and has led the team in scoring nine times. That also consists of four 20-point games, including a career-high 31 at Denver.

However, like most of the team, Hargrave has struggled from the field over the last 13 games, shooting 29.8 percent (36-121) and 26.0 (19-73) from beyond the arc over that span.

Among Big Sky leaders (all games), Hargrave is fourth in steals (1.80 spg), fifth in free throw percentage (.815), 10th in three-pointers (1.72 per game), 12th in minutes (29.2 mpg) and 13th in scoring (13.2 ppg). Hargrave has combined for 14 steals over his last four games, and has recorded at least one swipe in all but five games he has appeared in this year.

Struggles On Defense

Although Sacramento State has forced opponents into 20.03 turnovers per game, the team has struggled badly at limiting easy looks at the basket for the opposition.

In fact, opponents are shooting 51.7 percent (800-1547) from the field against Sacramento State, easily the worst mark in the Big Sky. That includes a season-high 66.7 percent from both Weber State (30-45) and Northern Arizona (32-48). NAU shot better than .600 against the Hornets in both of the teams' meetings (.646 in Flagstaff earlier this year).

All told, opponents have shot better than .600 on six occasions, including Boise State (.632), Illinois State (.607) and Idaho State (.615). Fifteen opponents have shot better than 50.0 percent from the field, and the Hornets are 1-14 in those games. The team's first win of the season when an opponent shoots better than .500 came two weeks ago at home against Montana State (.561).

Milestones For Bausley

Earlier this season, senior forward Alex Bausley (pronounced BOZ-lee) became just the third Sacramento State player to reach the 1,000 point plateau during the team's Div. I era (1991-pres.). Damond Edwards (1,197 points; 1992-97) and Michael Boyd (1,064 points; 1993-97) are the other Hornets who have accomplished the feat. In program history, Bausley became the sixth player to reach the 1,000-point plateau.

Earlier this year, he became the program's Div. I leader in career rebounds, passing Michael Boyd's mark of 507. Among Div. I program leaders, Bausley is first in rebounds (545), second in points (1,135) and steals (185), and fifth in assists (166).

A first team all-Big Sky selection in 2005-06 and this year's team captain, Bausley is currently averaging 12.6 points, 5.4 rebounds, 2.3 assists and 2.4 steals per game while shooting 41.7 percent (138-331) from the field. He has scored in double figures 19 times this year, and 59 times during his four-year career. His average of 2.43 steals per game is the second best mark in the Big Sky, and he needs three steals to match Rodney Stuckey for the conference lead in overall steals (71).

The Los Angeles native, and graduate of Fairfax High School (the same high school that head coach Jerome Jenkins graduated) has raised his scoring average from 2.9 ppg as a freshman, 10.4 ppg as a sophomore, and 13.6 last season. The biggest difference for Bausley occurred during the offseason between his freshman and sophomore seasons, when he shed 35 pounds of weight.

Leath For Three

One of the Hornets' main perimeter shooters, Sacramento State sophomore shooting guard Loren Leath is among team leaders in points (359), points per game (12.8), field goals (135), field goals attempted (378), three-pointers (70) and three-pointers attempted (194). The Hornets are 4-1 when he tallies at least 20 points this year.

However, Leath's production has declined of late as his 16 points at Eastern Washington snapped a career-worst streak of five straight games without scoring in double figures. That includes his eight-minute, zero point performance in the Hornets' win against Montana State. Leath had gone 45 straight games without being shut out of the scoring column until getting blanked against Montana State.

Head coach Jerome Jenkins gives Leath the green light at all times and Leath has not been shy about shooting the ball, attempting at least 10 shots in all but six games. Unfortunately for the Hornets, Leath has shot better than 50.0 percent from the field in just three games all season. He has hoisted at least 15 shots on 11 occasions. An honorable mention all-Big Sky selection last season after setting the Sacramento State Div. I record for most points by a freshman, Leath is currently fifth in the Big Sky (all games) with an average of 2.50 treys per game and 16th in scoring (12.8 ppg).

Struggle on the Boards

One season removed from finishing last in the Big Sky with a rebounding disparity of -5.9 per game, the rebounding problems have been in full swing again in 2006-07. In fact, the Hornets have outrebounded just one opponent in the last 22 games. Against Big Sky opposition, the Hornets are being outrebounded by more than 11 boards per game (41.5-30.0). That includes ridiculous rebounding disparities of 49-18 vs. Idaho State, 51-32 vs. Portland State, 48-31 at Portland State, and 37-21 at Northern Arizona. Overall, the team is being outrebounded, 40.6-34.1 (-6.5).

Remember The Alamo

One glaring weakness for Sacramento State over the years has been the lack of productivity from the team's centers. The Hornets had four players start at center last season, and those four combined to average a grand total of 4.6 points and 5.8 rebounds per game.

The big man production has changed this year with the addition of junior Angel Alamo. A transfer from Riverside Community College, Alamo is averaging 10.1 points and 6.2 rebounds per game. He has led or shared the team lead in rebounding 16 times this season. That includes a pair of double-doubles. The Brooklyn native has scored in double figures seven times in the last 11 games, and 15 times this season.

Overall, Alamo is shooting 48.0 percent (109-

227) from the field and 82.1 percent (64-78) from the free throw line. Of his 174 rebounds, a team-high 64 have come on the offensive glass. Alamo's free throw percentage is the fourth best mark in the Big Sky, and he ranks among the conference's top 10 players (all games) in four different categories.

Hornet Briefs

Unless he endures a horrific shooting night against Weber State, junior power forward Davon Roberts' current field goal percentage of .602 will break the previous Div. I-era (1991-pres.) season record of .559, a mark he established last year. In fact, he could become the only Hornet to shoot better than 60.0 percent from the field since 1975...junior combo guard Rod Adams has scored in double figures each of the last three games (10, 10, 11) after accomplishing the feat just once through his first 25 games of the season. Shooting .455 from the free throw line this year, he has improved those numbers as well, making seven of his last nine attempts...junior Jason Davis is averaging one rebound every 4.0 minutes of game action, second on the team to Angel Alamo (3.8)...junior center Curtis Harrison went 1-of-2 from the field Saturday at Eastern Washington, marking just his second field goal made of the season...junior point guard Kris Groce has led the team in scoring four times in the last six games.

The Last Meeting

David Patten scored a team-high 21 points and Weber State shot 66.7 percent (30-45) from the field on the way to an 88-68 victory over Sacramento State on Jan. 11 at the Dee Events Center.

The Wildcats, who held a 42-33 halftime lead, shot a ridiculous 73.9 percent (17-23) in the second half to put the game away. Patten went 8-of-14 from the field while also tallying seven rebounds. Arturas Valeika added 20 points and 11 rebounds on 6-of-7 shooting. Seven different Weber State players shot better than 50.0 percent from the field. In addition, Weber State owned the glass, outrebounding Sacramento State, 38-24.

The Wildcats led for the final 36:08 of the game as the 20-point margin of victory was also the team's largest lead of the night. After a pair of free throws from Sacramento State's Haron Hargrave sliced the Wildcat lead to six points (54-48) with 13:43 remaining in the contest, Weber State immediately responded with a 12-7 run to take a 66-55 lead with 9:19 left in the game. Sacramento State trailed by double figures the rest of the way as the Wildcats scored 10 of the game's final 13 points.

Hargrave led all players with 23 points as the combo guard shot 4-of-7 from beyond the three-point arc and 11-of-11 from the free throw line.

In his third game of the season, junior Kris Groce added 11 points and four assists in 36 minutes to round out the Hornets in double figures. Alex Bausley added nine points, but shot just 3-of-14.

Sacramento State shot 35.8 percent (24-67) from the field while Weber State's 66.7 shooting percentage is tied for the best by a Hornet opponent this year. The Hornets had no answer for an Weber State's combination of big men. The 6-8 Patten and 6-9 Valeika combined for 41 points and 18 rebounds.
